

BOOKS

Edited by
NATASHA HARDING

A HEART FULL OF HEADSTONES

Ian Rankin, £22

PICK OF THE WEEK

THE legendary John Rebus is accused of a crime that could put him behind bars for the rest of his life.

It isn't the first time the cop has taken the law into his own hands, but it might be the last.

DI Siobhan Clarke faces an explosive case as she investigates corrupt officers. But all roads lead to Rebus – and her loyalties will be tested.

Rebus and Rankin haven't lost a step in what's now the 24th adventure – pure magic.

★★★★★
JONATHAN
WHITELAW

SOMETIMES PEOPLE DIE

Simon Stephenson, £14.99

IN 1999, a young doctor fighting an opioid addiction takes a job as senior house officer at struggling St Luke's hospital.

Chaos reigns in the deprived East London institution and it becomes apparent that too many patients are dying. The only conclusion is there is a killer at large.

As the police investigate, the suspicion falls on medics.

The dramatic, unnerving story and incredible writing make for an exceptional read.

★★★★★

THE HUNT

Andy McNab, £18.99

THIS is a true story told through soldier "Jay" of the Special Boat Service, the Navy's SAS equivalent.

Set in Afghanistan 2007, Jay reveals the complex process for a successful operation against a major terrorist.

The target is Taliban military commander "Black Mullah" Dadullah, known for cutting off heads.

The book is part history lesson, part military manual, part fixed-bayonets thriller.

A must for Special Forces fans.

★★★★★

BILL TODD

TYGER

SF Said, £12.99

YOUNG Adam Alhambra is on the run in a dystopian 21st century London when he finds a beast, who becomes an unexpected ally.

As he attempts to heal the injured big cat, Adam makes a discovery.

However, trouble arises when huntsmen question his encounter with the beast.

Now he must decide whether to protect the beast and delve into a twisted and potentially dangerous mystery or return to his life in the family shop.

Can peace be restored to London Town?

★★★★★

ZAK HOPE

